We have for sometime felt letters of thanks and expressions of appreciation are not appropriate for our Letters to the Editor column.

However, we recently received several letters of this type which we feel really need mentioning.

One of the letters was written by Russ Albritton Jr. of Sebring, Fla. whose son was involved in an automobile accident and taken to Hancock General Hospital for emergency care.

Mr. Albritton, whose son was under surgery when they arrived at HGH, offered high praises for John Holderman, RN, Intensive Care Unit director, who explained the condition of his son to him.

He also mentioned "Our son had the best of everything... Your entire hospital organization became more than just employees doing a job, they really became friends expressing concern, and giving nothing short of the best in helping our son recover from his injuries."

A letter from Shelia McMahon and Karen Fayard expresses thanks for efforts beyond the call of duty offered by Waveland Patrolman John Wilkerson Jr. when they had an unfortunate mishap at their place of business in Waveland.

The ladies said, "It is good to know that in a time when nobody wants to help anybody, a few people will go out of their way for you."

The Bay St. Louis Police Department, Patrolman Michael Hobby and a police clerk were praised by Leslie Blaize for assistance they rendered when he was involved in an accident in Bay St. Louis.

Mr. Blaize's letter stated, "Even though the person who hit me apparently had been drinking, Patrolman Hobby treated him with utmost respect and did not take advantage of the situation. The clerk on duty went out of her way to assist me in filling out the forms required by the state."

Our fourth letter was from Beverley Praetorius thanking the persons responsible for fixing the holes at the Bay Mall parking lot and complaining about the Mardi Gras trash.

She stated, "I do want to thank who ever it is that patched the holes in the Bay Mall. But, Cher, what about the mess along the fence, Mardi Gras has been over for sometime."

We feel these are some of the good things people like to have said about them and their organizations and one of the reasons we are passing them on to you.

Earlier this week we mentioned to John Smith, county agent, we were planning a mid-week trip to Starkville for a meeting of the Mississippi Press Association directors.

Smith really lighted up when we told him the meeting would be held in the Veterinary Science Building of Mississippi State. After the visit, we knew why Smith was so eager to talk about the facility at MSU.

The building is unbelievable, you have to see it for yourself, it is a place Mississippians can really be proud to say is part of higher education facilities in this state.

There even seems to be a little jealousy from the other departments at Mississippi State, to give you an idea of the structure.

MSU held it's first graduation exercises in which doctor of veterinary medicine degrees were awarded in 1981.

We are sure the state and nation will be hearing and benefiting from those and future veterinarians from MSU.

We Care About Eagles

The Year of the Eagle

Actor Robert Redford heads drive to save national bird

In the bald eagle's 200-year reign as this country's national symbol, the big, majestic bird has graced many a building, coin and document. The national symbol even landed on the moon with Apollo 11.

This year, from March 14 through 20, the eagle will serve as the symbol for yet another event. For the first time, National Wildlife Week, an educational effort sponsored annually by the National Wildlife Federation, will focus on the plight of the bald eagle, now an endangered species in most of the "lower 48" states.

The theme of the week, "We Care About Eagles," will also help commemorate 1982 as the "Year of the Eagle," marking the 200th anniversary of the bald eagle's selection as this country's national symbol.

Actor and environmentalist Robert Redford will serve as the "week's" honorary chairman.

Coincidentally, Americans will observe the "Year of the Eagle" in the same year that they commemorate the 100th birthday of Wildlife Week's creator, Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

FDR proclaimed the first Wildlife Week in 1938 to rally public support for the nation's wildlife.

"It's appropriate that we remember the eagle and FDR in the same year," said Dr. Jay D. Heir, executive vice president of the NWF.

"For many Americans, the name Roosevelt has come to be synonymous with 'hope.' If any one animal could represent that abstraction, it's the bald eagle."

"He represents our hope—for freedom, courage and for the continued health of the environment. That hope has kept National Wildlife Week going—ever since Roosevelt first called for it 44 years ago," Heir added.

Specific kinds of wildlife have been named in National Wildlife Week themes only three times in the past. In 1952, the NWF asked Americans to "Save the Keyhole," after a deer found only in the Florida Keys. A year later, the Federation made the same plea for the prairie chicken. In 1962, Americans were asked to think about "Waterfowl for the Future."

Otherwise, the federation has generally chosen broader themes for Wildlife Week. Last year, the theme was "We Care About Oceans," with Walter Cronkite serving as Wildlife Week chairman. Other more general themes have included 1978's "This Is Your Land—Conserve It," and 1977's "Wildlife—Who Needs It?"

Endangered species have often been the subject of Wildlife Week themes, as in 1964 and 1974, when themes were

"Endangered Wildlife" and "We Care About Endangered Wildlife."

Habitat protection has also been the subject of several observances of this "week." "Provide Habitat" was the theme in 1969, "We Care About Wildlife Habitat" was 1975's slogan, and in 1976 it was "Save Our Wetlands."

The Federation hopes that the slogan "We Care About Eagles" will call attention to the fact that many wildlife species, including the bald eagle, are now endangered in the United States.

"The bald eagle is probably the most visible example of an animal whose survival has been needlessly threatened," said Heir. "We made the bird our national symbol in 1782. Then we started destroying his habitats, polluting the streams from which he feeds, and shooting him from the sky. With a little more planning, those abuses could have been avoided. This bird never should have been forced on to the endangered species list."

A major goal of Wildlife Week is to educate students, conservationists and the general public about the plight of the eagle. Close to five hundred thousand education kits will be distributed to schools throughout the country. Robert Redford has narrated public service announcements for radio and television that describe the eagle's struggle to survive.

As a leader in the fight to save the national bird in the contiguous states, NWF has established four refuges in prime eagle wintering areas since 1974. The federation also conducts a mid-winter bald eagle survey each January to determine the number of eagles wintering in North America.

And at the federation's Raptor Information Center in Virginia, researchers work to identify critical bald eagle habitats and to maintain a data "bank" on eagles and other birds of prey.

The federation also offers a $500 reward for information leading to the conviction in federal court of anyone who kills a bald eagle. Eagles have been protected by federal law since 1940. NWF has presented $6,000 in rewards, since it began its reward program in 1972.

Senior citizen laments impending elimination of transportation, other services to elderly

Dear Mr. Editor,
I am old Senior Citizen. I am very upset over news that was told to us at Senior Citizen Center.

Our funds and our bus ride to grocery store, doctor, almost every thing we enjoyed so much, will be taken away from us.

Mrs. Eve McDonald work so hard also Beth Farve - to make things pleasant for cripple and blind. We have some over 90 and 80-years-old.

A couple of years ago, I was so depressed, all I did was cry.

Mrs. Eve put me in Day Care Center. She took care of me. I pray every night that the Center will never close.

The Governor's wife came to see us and talked to us.

As long as Governor Winter is in office we would not have to worry.

Waveland resident advocates state lottery system to meet educational needs

Dear Sir,
I have what I feel is an answer to the state's teachers' need and deserve.

Start a state run lottery such as New Hampshire or Massachusetts has.

You sell 50 cent tickets and offer $1,000 winners each week and a $50,000 winner each month.

The profits would go to pay for teachers' salaries and other educational programs.

The lottery system works and costs us, the taxpayer nothing.

Why don't you draft a bill for this?

Yours,
Donald G. Haskell

FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Federal income tax counseling is being made available to elderly Mississippians at senior centers, nursing homes and information referral offices across the state by the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA), a division of the Governor's Office of Federal State Programs.

Elderly persons wishing to take advantage of this free service should contact their area agency on aging, MCOA by calling 342-6800 or the toll-free Governor's Service Line, 1-800-222-7622.

More than 100 counselors recently were trained by Internal Revenue Service (IRS) instructors, to assist older Mississippians in filing their federal tax returns, in MCOA-sponsored workshops. "This assistance is designed to help older persons in every area of the state, particularly those who are not aware of certain special provisions of the tax law," said Jay C. Moon, MCOA executive director. "The tax counseling is among many MCOA programs to help elderly citizens in their local areas with assistance ranging from health screening to energy. We want elderly Mississippians to have their full share of all our state has to offer," Moon said.

Governor William Winter, who recently joined his fellow governors in a discussion of federalism and economic policy with Office of Management and Budget Director David Stockman, said he hopes the Reagan Administration will make economic recovery rather than federalism its top priority.

"Reduced interest rates are a key to putting more of our people to work," Winter said.

"To stimulate economic growth, job creation, and capital investment in Mississippi we must get a handle on the federal deficit and reduce interest rates so that we can promote investment and a productive economy. If we are to generate new economic development, spur the home building industry, revitalize agricultural production and the wood products industry, we must reduce interest rates."

The governor described exorbitant interest rates as a blanket which is smothering economic recovery and job creation.

Winter also met with Senate Finance Chairman Bob Dole and House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski.

The governor urged Congress to give special attention to reducing interest rates in order to spur investments in productive business enterprises.

Winter also urged the two chairmen to work vigorously to preserve the tax-exempt status of Industrial Development Bonds (IDBs).

Winter noted that IDBs are "an especially essential tool to promote the development of small businesses in a period of high interest rates." The governor pointed out that small business development is a key element of the nation's and Mississippi's ability to put more people to work.

A proclamation naming March as Forest Fire Prevention Month in Mississippi has been issued by Governor William Winter.

"More words on an official document will not prevent forest and brush fires in our State, but I'm confident that the good people of Mississippi, adequately informed of the need, can and will pitch in to help stop this annual carnage of our increasingly precious timberlands," said the Governor in linking the proclamation to the state's forest resources.

State Forester David H. Hines pointed out that March is indeed a critical time for forest fires. The month has the highest number of lightning occurrences each year in the State, as well as being a peak time for forest fires. Hines urged citizens to be alert for forest fires and to report any suspicious activity to the Forest Service.

With any combination of dry weather and high temperatures, forest fires can be a real threat to our State's forest resources. Hines urged citizens to be alert for forest fires and to report any suspicious activity to the Forest Service.

For any questions, Hines can be reached at (601) 467-5474.

Hawks, Blue Devils tie in grid battle

The Hancock North Central varsity football team matched the Pearl River Central Blue Devils Thursday with a 6-6 tie to end the spring practice season.

Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre noted both coaches felt they had nothing to prove by going into overtime to determine a winner.

"Neither of us wanted to take a chance on injuries and we were both pleased with our squads as it was," he said.

Both teams scored in third quarter. Pearl River Central scored on a quarterback keeper while Hawk halfback Rodney Rester scored the Hancock touchdown with a three yard run into the endzone.

Favre noted a 40 yard Hawk drive set up that run.

A complete pass from quarterback Mark Santalla to Cedric Goff contributed to a major portion of that drive. Favre noted the passing combination between Santalla and Goff worked "extremely well" for Hancock Thursday.

In the fourth quarter Hawk Lydell Curry broke a 70 yard run into the endzone which was later called back when referees said he stepped out of bounds on the 18 yard line.

"We played a good defensive ball game," Favre said. "The entire game was well played by both teams," he added.

Tigers squash Eagles, 11-0

The Bay High School varsity baseball team blanked the St. John Eagles 11-0 Friday in Gulfport.

Tiger pitcher Scott Adams went seven innings before allowing the only hit of the game. He struck out nine batters and walked two for the evening.

At the plate Adams nabbed three hits in five times at bat. Tiger David Palmisano also contributed to the scoring spree but hitting a two run homer in the second inning to drive in Anthony Smith.

The Tigers started the scoring in the first inning with two runs.

In the second inning they added two more runs while in the third, fourth and fifth innings the Tigers scored one run during each inning.

In the sixth inning the Tigers scored four runs to earn the decisive victory.

NSTL achieves milestone in Shuttle engine testing

The Space Shuttle test program at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County this month achieved a major milestone by accumulating 100,000 seconds of total single engine test time since the program began in 1975.

A successful 500-second firing March 8 put the main engine program's total test time at 100,100 seconds in 626 tests.

"The emphasis of the program now is developing the basic engine design's increased thrust level," said Boyce Mix, Space Shuttle Main Engine Program resident manager, Marshall Space Flight Center.

"And preparations are now under way to flight certify the engines which will power the Challenger, the second orbiter."

The NSTL test program directly supports the NASA shuttle program by developing and improving the engine design and also by acceptance testing all flight engines which will be used on actual shuttle missions.

During 1980, the three main engines which boosted the Columbia into orbit on its first two missions last year were acceptance tested at the Hancock County Center.

Those same engines will be used on the Columbia's third flight scheduled for March 22.

The Columbia engines are rated at 100 percent thrust, which means that each engine is capable of generating 375,000 pounds of thrust at sea level during liftoff.

The current testing will provide data to increase the engine's thrust level to 109 percent so that each engine can produce 409,000 pounds of thrust.

This increased thrust level will allow the orbiter to carry heavier payloads such as satellites into low Earth orbit.

The flight engines for the Columbia which is now scheduled for its first launch in January 1983 will be tested at 109 percent. Each of the three engines will undergo a 100 percent thrust acceptance series at NSTL between April and June before being sent to NASA's Kennedy Space Center in Florida for installation in the orbiter.

The frequent single engine testing at NSTL is expected to continue throughout the decade of the 1980s, according to Mix.

In addition to research and development and flight acceptance testing, NSTL will recertify the reusable main engines after their mission life is reached.

Extension of the engine's life to an eventual 55 missions before refurbishment and recertification is required will be achieved based on results of testing being conducted at NSTL.

Brothers Building Materials in Bay St. Louis, the police chief reported.

No citations were issued in the incident which was investigated by Patrolman Veronica Hattabaugh, Dorn added.

SENTENCED

A New Orleans man accused of burglarizing a Pearllington residence last year was sentenced Friday to five years in Parchman State Penitentiary.

Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson of Hancock County, later that day said Ricky L. Wright, 27, was sentenced in Biloxi by Place Two Circuit Judge Ruble Griffin for allegedly burglarizing the home of Irma Cuevas.

Kevin Behere, Wright's alleged accomplice, was recently sentenced to seven years in the pen, Peterson noted.

The sheriff said both men were convicted in previous offenses.

PAROLE VIOLATION

Peterson reported Alan R. Cooley, 24, of Carriere was apprehended in Pearl River County for an alleged parole violation.

Cooley was returned here Thursday by Deputy Nathan Hoda for revocation of parole, Peterson said.

The sheriff noted the violation charge was imposed by Jerry Heitzmann, a probation officer.

FORGERY ARREST

A BaySide Park woman was arrested Thursday by a Hancock deputy for an alleged Slidell forgery charge.

Peterson said Toni F. Madre, 34, was arrested by Deputy Glen Strong under authority of a St. Tammany Sheriff's Department warrant.

The sheriff said Madre is being held in Hancock County Jail awaiting transfer to Slidell.

HARM THREAT

A Pearllington man is charged with threatening to do bodily harm and is scheduled for a hearing before Justice Court Judge Lee Klein at 6 p.m. on April 7.

Klien recently reported that Hugh H. Odom, 80, was charged Tuesday with threatening Grover Bennett, also of Pearllington.

MULTIPLE CHARGES

A Bay St. Louis man was arrested recently at McDonalds on US-90 in Waveland and is facing several charges.

Dorn reported that Richard G. Thomas, 23, of No. 1 Foxrot St., is charged with two counts of profanity, driving under the influence, refusing a breath test, disturbing the peace and threatening an officer.

The police chief said Patrolman Audi

Murphy arrested Thomas who was apparently involved in a fight and was allegedly cursing at the fast-food establishment.

Dorn noted that Thomas allegedly incited the fight with Lance Fricke and Reggie Barrios.

Thomas also apparently backed his pickup truck into a vehicle owned by Bobby Gavagnie of Bay St. Louis, the police chief said.

Dorn reported that Thomas was taken to the sheriff's office for booking where he allegedly used profane language in front of law enforcement officials.

Thomas was released on an $850 bond on charges resulting from the alleged Waveland incident and $565 bond on charges from the apparent sheriff's office event.

Dorn said Thomas is scheduled to appear in Waveland City Court and in a hearing before Justice Court Judge John Chevis.

AUDUBON PILGRIMAGE MARCH 19, 20 and 21, 1982

St. Francisville, La.

Four historic, private homes and two famous century-old gardens will be opened for the eleventh annual Audubon Pilgrimage on March 19, 20 and 21, 1982 in picturesque West Feliciana Parish.

Three of the featured homes are within the town limits of St. Francisville.

VIRGINIA, circa 1817, 1826 and 1855, grew from a one-room store, to a modest cottage, to a formal mansion; IRVINE HOUSE, circa 1904, originally built in rowdy Bayou Sara, later moved to the more rarified ambience of Catholic Hill; and EVERGREENZINE, circa 1855, whose Bavarian builder wanted the latest in "modern" housing, now celebrating its 98th birthday.

One hundred and two years after Virginia's origin, builders began the fourth home on the Audubon Pilgrimage. WILDWOOD, circa 1915, is a stately country house designed to accommodate the many members of the New Orleans family.

ROSEDOWN GARDENS, renown for rare plantings and century-old azaleas and camellias, are landscaped in the French style of the 17th Century, yet reflect the natural beauty of the West Feliciana countryside.

AFTON VILLA GARDENS feature a mile long oak alley, interspersed with huge azaleas, a seven terraced garden, a boxwood maze, a well-kept family cemetery.

The West Feliciana Historical Society annually sponsors this three day event and offers many additional attractions beside the featured homes and gardens. Notable among these is the reconstructed Rural Homestead where Society members and friends demonstrate the everyday skills of the rural South of a by-gone era. In St. Francisville, many activities will attract visitors to Royal Street by Daylight.

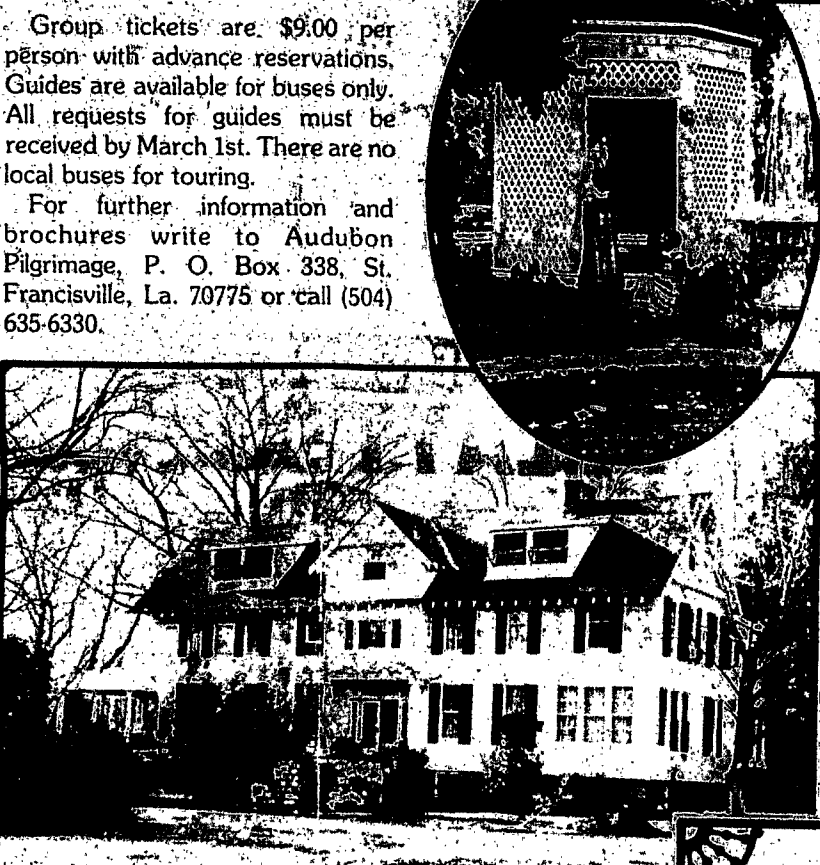

A very popular feature of the Pilgrimage of recent years is the authentic and award-winning costuming by members of the Historical Society. These authentic copies of the dress of the 1820's range from simple day frocks to elaborate dinner dresses and ball gowns for the candlelight tour.

Lunch will be served daily at Jackson Hall, parish house of historic Grace Episcopal Church by local church and civic groups.

At twilight, Royal Street by Candlelight will take on a festive air with a wine and cheese soiree at the BANK OF COMMERCE AND TRUST COMPANY and PROPINQUITY, circa 1809, will be open to visitors.

Hours of the Pilgrimage are 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily for the day tour. Royal Street by Candlelight will be offered on Friday, March 19 and Saturday, March 20, only from 7 to 9 p.m.

Pilgrimage tickets are $10.00 per person. Students with ID and/or children are $5.00. Candlelight Tour on Friday and Saturday $3.00, all ages.

Group tickets are $9.00 per person with advance reservations. Guides are available for buses only. All requests for guides must be received by March 1st. There are no local buses for touring.

For further information and brochures write to Audubon Pilgrimage, P. O. Box 338, St. Francisville, La. 70775 or call (504) 635-6330.

Arbor Day Foundation offering free trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving two free apple trees to all new Foundation members joining during March.

A red delicious apple tree and a yellow delicious apple tree are being given by the Foundation to help its new members fight the high cost of living by planting "edible landscapes."

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting during 1982, the 100th anniversary of the first observance of Arbor Day in schools.

HALF-BIRTHDAY—Angela Michelle Baldree, 6 mos., is joined by her brother, Jimmy, age 6, and her sister, Leanne, age 2, at the recent celebration of her half-birthday. Parents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. James Baldree of Pearlington.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give the two free apple trees to new members contributing $5 or more during March.

The trees will be 18 to 24 inches tall and will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting and care instructions at an appropriate time for planting this spring. They are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

"Arbor Day's founder, J. Sterling Morton, emphasized the value of planting fruit trees. So it is most appropriate that our new members receive free apple trees during this centennial year," a Foundation representative said.

To become a member of the Foundation, and to receive the free trees, a $5 membership contribution should be sent to Free Apple Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by March 31, 1982.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

—John 10:10

EDITOR'S NOTE: Minister Shawn Murphy of the Bay St. Louis Church of Christ today begins a regular weekly inspirational column for the Sea Coast Echo. The young minister's writings promise to be both ecumenical and challenging. The column will be entitled "The Abundant Life." The Echo welcomes Shawn Murphy both to our community as new minister of the Church of Christ here and to the columns of our newspaper.

By Shawn Murphy

Convinced that life can and should be a rich and rewarding experience and that this can only come through a full relationship with the Son of God, Jesus Christ, this column is prayerfully submitted.

It is the deepest concern of this writer that you may be blessed through this weekly article. And, hopefully, as a result of this short devotional that you may be able to enjoy the 'abundant life' that comes through application of the inspired and all-wise Word of God.

It is the view of the Bible that our lives must be built on the basic understanding that there really is a great and personal God who has revealed Himself generally in the written Word, the Bible, and personally in the living Word, Jesus Christ.

The most basic problem of human life that is witnessed both the Word and Jesus is the fact of man's separation from God. This separation is due to the fact that God is holy and that we are not.

Until this great gulf is crossed, we may find temporary solutions to our personal problems by applying Biblical principles, however we may never possess the 'abundant life' of which Jesus speaks.

It is quite fundamental that the only way to find God and to enjoy life with Him is through Jesus Christ. Speaking of Jesus, Paul says, "He is the image of the invisible God," (Colossians 1:15).

Jesus says of himself in the Gospel of John that "no man cometh unto the Father but through me" (John 14:6).

It is only when we are willing to agree with God that we are sinful, willing to turn away from our sins, and trust in the sacrifice of Jesus as the complete payment for the cost of our sins, that we are brought into a personal relationship with God; a fascinating thought, and that the door to the 'abundant life' is fully opened.

Each week we will journey together in search of the 'abundant life' through application of God's great truths in each facet of our lives.

We will look at God's will for the family unit, the husband-wife and the parent-child relationships. We will explore the mind of God concerning such topics as self-control, learning to have a healthy love for self and others, and even learning how to handle life's setbacks and our own failures.

May God bless you as we learn together about the 'abundant life' to be found in Christ.

POWELL CHIROPRACTIC CENTER

If you're like most people, you may have occasional or persistent back pain and wonder what caused it. You may have done to strain your back, and come up with nothing. But there has to be a reason why you have back pains. The truth is that even the simplest of incidents may be the cause, such as sudden stooping to pick something up, or reaching to a high shelf.

Whatever the cause, the problem may be that your spinal column is out of alignment, so pain-killing drug can cure the cause. In the interest of better health:

Engaged and fighting

Q: I have been engaged to be married for a year, but my boyfriend and I have had a few bad fights, and now he says he is afraid to get married. I am 25 and he is 20, but the age difference doesn't bother us at all. I am very depressed, because if this relationship doesn't work I feel I will never have a husband and family. I am a very lonely person. I don't have any close friends. I have a job and I just stay home. I love my boyfriend, but he has changed. What do I do? Please pray for me and help me.

A: Since you and your boyfriend are having "bad fights" now, you should carefully consider whether this might be a prelude to more frequent and worse fights after marriage. Your boyfriend's fear of marriage could indicate a lack of maturity and readiness for such an important step.

Bird lover offers
world's ugliest

Would anybody like to contribute to the well-being of Starvin' Marvin?

She's about a "frying pan" cat with the undesirable claim to the title of "Eldest Cat in Hancock County."

Marvin has no papa, no mama, and no Uncle Sam. She was born out of wedlock and everybody knows that is a "blotch on the southern."

Marvin's requirements are few: She is used to sleeping in the open. She won't a problem to feed. She will eat anything that doesn't threaten to eat her first. Raw corn, stale bread, bird's seeds, kitchen leftovers. Delicious!

Marvin is mostly black with a few orange-colored blotches.

Anyone who would like Marvin and give him a home would be doing a good deed; loving the unlovable, and removing Marvin from my bird-feeding career. He just could get so annoying to eat a bird. That, to be sure, my knowledge, hasn't happened yet.

Why don't I adopt Marvin? Well, I already have Delton, who was thrown in the yard about three years ago, and Simon, Bulbuv, who serves as my back door man. I am getting a bit "Can Crowded!" and offer you the opportunity of making a record as owner of the ugliest cat in the world.

Bay Little Theatre to conduct auditions

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will conduct tryouts for their next play, "The Butler Did It," Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse.

Director Frank Gray is looking for five adult men and five adult women for the cast, as well as people to assist backstage.

Gray has directed such plays as "Lemonade," "Our Town" and "The Absence of a Cello" on the West Coast, and has appeared as an actor in the Bay St. Louis productions of "Bells Are Ringing" and "Fanny Crayton."

"The Bad Guy" is a spool of English mystery plays with a decidedly American flavor.

Miss Maple, a society dowager noted for her "imaginative" weekend parties, invites a group of detective writers to seerie Ravenswood Manor, where they are to assume the personalities of their fictional characters.

She's arranged all sorts of scary, amusing incidents.

Then a real murder takes place and the "guests" realize they're all marked for death.

NERVE METAPHOR. In "The Neuron Suite," host James Burke uses the self-contained society of a luxury hotel as an entertaining metaphor to explain how the nervous system coordinates the complex chemistry that directs its functions.

"The Neuron Suite," a special presentation for "Festival Nights," can be seen at 7 p.m., Sunday, March 14, on the Mississippi ETV Network. "Festival Nights" is a network of satellite channels.

When they're not busy tripping over the clues, the zany sleuths trip over one another. Loads of laughs and thrills with a good tripping.

programming designed to increase viewer awareness of public television.

Checking into a resort hotel, Burke immediately finds parallels between the hotels' attitudes and those in the business world. "The hotel is in a monopolistic state," even he receives a tip, and the check-in procedure illustrates the difference between routine behavior and "executive action."

A call to room service delivers a lesson as well as livity to explain the message-carrying process of the nervous system.

Once settled into his neuron suite, Burke uses special effects, instant models, and musical animation and sound to help the audience to describe chemistry, and brain activity, and to show what happens when this chemistry malfunctions. With special color X-rays, Burke points out specific areas of the brain at work and shows how the brain is affected by a musical concert and an

Weather Outlook

Cooperative Extension Service indicated that rainfall amounts will be below normal in the southern two-thirds of the state and below normal in the northern section.

Temperatures are also expected to average below normal which may slow growth of pastures, corn, and other early planted crops.

A cold front moving through the Mid-South from the Weather Service in Springfield will prepare the forecast.

Rainfall amounts in March, one of the wettest months of the year, usually range from 5.25 inches in northern Mississippi to more than seven inches in southern Mississippi, the weather experts say.

Poultrymen may be confronted with large changes in temperature as the season change gets under way. With colder weather expected, poultrymen should be alert to the arrival of cold air from the northwest when fronts move through the area.

The cattle feed index, an indication of extra feed cattle may need in cold weather, will continue on the weather service advisories until pastures have enough growth to support herds.

Emergency first responder course registrations sought

However, priority enrollment consideration will be given to personnel presently employed in emergency occupations.

The First Responder Courses will include classroom and field training. Each course will be taught by Dr. William Bradford and other medical personnel from Hancock County. Upon successful completion of a course, participants will be proficient in providing basic emergency medical care to victims of emergencies; taking actions necessary to minimize patient suffering; and preventing further injury.

Also, after successful completion of a course, participants will receive a certification card from the State Department of Education and a certificate from Pearl River Junior College.

The course outline includes training in the alleviation of the following medical conditions: Inadequate or obstructed airway; heart attack and cardiac arrest; external and internal bleeding; shock; fractures, dislocations, sprains; and

Also, diabetic coma, insulin shock, seizures; emergency childbirth; alcohol and drug abuse; ingested and inhaled poisons; bites and stings; and exposure to heat and cold.

Training in use of bandages and dressings and upper and lower extremity splints will also be included.

Limited training in extrication techniques will be offered, Bradford added.

The first course is scheduled to start April 7 and end on June 1.

The class will meet at the Hancock County Vo-Tech Center from 6 until 10 p.m. on Wednesday evenings.

Another course is scheduled to start on April 5 and end on May 25.

The class will meet at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue in Waveland from 7 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Thursday evenings.

The objective of the First Responder Course is to provide training in all aspects of emergency medical care required at the scene of a traffic accident by a rescuer who is not an ambulance emergency medical technician (EMT-A).

This course is designed as a digest version of the basic EMT-A course to upgrade emergency medical services in semi-rural areas.

In order to have a place reserved in either of the two classes, applicants must register in person at the Vo-Tech Center of call To-Tech Director Al Bourgeois at 467-2443 prior to the April 5 date.

Each class will have 15 students.

At least ten students are required to start a course.

No prior training experience in the emergency medical care field is required of course applicants.
